

The Bloomfield Record.

S. H. HULIN, Editor and Proprietor.

FRIDAY, MARCH 2, 1873

All who are interested in having a live newspaper in this village are requested to send by mail, or to the publishing office, local items of news, correspondence, etc., for publication.

No charge is made for publishing Marriages, Deaths, or Religious Notices. Single numbers of the Record can always be had at this office, at the Post Office, and of the Newsdealers.

All kinds of Printing done at the Record Office.

A Subjugating Act.

The New General County Act, as now before the Legislature, gives Essex nineteen freeholders, of which twelve will be from Newark, six from the townships and one each from the four "private boxes," which are the four "private boxes," which were draped with the national colors, here also handsome portraits of Lincoln and Grant. These decorations, the combined work and taste of Directors Sherman, Morris and Williamson, contributed not a little to the general harmony and pleasing effect of the "Inaugural."

The opening address was ably made by W. K. Williamson, Esq. He congratulated the Bloomfield public on the completion and opening of this Hall, regarding it as an evidence of the town's enterprise and liberality, and then went on to speak substantially as follows:

It should be our proudest boast that Bloomfield is our home, and it should be our aim to supply every incentive to local pride and patriotism, which springs from love of home. We should also strive to cultivate among our people a love of literature and the fine arts, combining the beautiful and the useful. These in the divine economy are conjoined. The arts of taste develop mental faculties and adorn life beyond those pursuits which are merely necessary or convenient.

We in Bloomfield have been a favored community, owing in material wealth, yet not unmindful of the higher aims and purer purposes which secure intellectual culture and moral excellence. Our churches, public schools and this beautiful edifice erected to art and literature, denote that our means are lavished with liberal hand for the cause of our common humanity.

The rise and progress of this Association and its work thus far are familiar to all present, and it need only be urged that it should enlist the sympathy of every good citizen in its future welfare and success. In a commonwealth like ours all are bound together by common ties which in their success or failure raise or depress a community. Then as this Bloomfield Library Association is in every way a worthy public institution, let the public shoulder be put to the wheel and its success will be assured.

The progress of this enterprise has been attended with many difficulties and discouragements, mostly to be attributed to the unfortunate financial depression prevalent throughout the country. But to-night Library Hall, filled with a critical and discriminating audience, speaks eloquently for itself, and is an enduring monument to the liberality and determination which has characterized its career. Past trouble, therefore, we can well afford to bury from sight, confident in the hope of a bright and prosperous future. We feel that its prosperity is fully justified, and no rebuke must be taken as a criterion by which to judge of the public sentiment.

In conclusion, in the name of the Board of Directors, permit me to return thanks for this generous appreciation and evident interest in this project, as expressed by your attendance, at this time. We invoke your sympathy and aid in promotion of our efforts for the common good. The best already given by the industries and God-fearing people who laid the foundation, it is destined to maintain. And trusting that other occasions will bring you back to witness the evidence of still greater results, I, in the name of the Association, commit this enterprise to the public—pro bono publico. May your favor strengthen the hands of those who designed and executed it and give additional and continued prosperity to all concerned.

Of the musical banquet which had been provided we can speak in terms of high praise. The singing by the boys of the Apollo Club fully sustained the expectations which had been indulged. The vocal programme was relieved and varied by the cornet playing of Mr. Aronick, whose performance was decidedly the hit of the evening. It seemed to be the general testimony of all, as shown by the hearty applause and favorable comment at the close of the concert, that a highly enjoyable entertainment had been provided. Nor were the people less pleased with the new hall, the acoustic properties of which seemed to be perfect. The stage is furnished with footlights having expand burners. It is also lighted by burners above. A set of parlor scenes has been provided, but as yet no drop curtain. Under the stage on each side are dressing rooms for ladies and gentlemen, also a room for the orchestra. There are ample doorways at the front and side, so that the hall can be very quickly emptied. The seating capacity is about 500, and the arranged that from every seat an unobstructed view of the stage can be had. The New York Advertiser, in its account of the Opening, expresses this favorable opinion:

"The Bloomfield hall may justly lay claim to having a hall which for its size, has no superior in this State."

Patrick Ward, who is under sentence of death at Belvidere, is falling in health. A petition is being circulated throughout Warren county, asking for the commuting of his sentence from hanging to life-long confinement in State Prison. It is being very largely signed.

Bloomfield's New Hall.

This beautiful temple of art was formally opened to the public last Wednesday night. The Opening, through earnest and laborious preparations made by the Committee who had in charge the arrangements, proved to be the most notable success Bloomfield has enjoyed in many a day. An audience estimated at not less than 700 were present, the larger part of whom had secured their seats in advance. The balcony was handsomely decorated by flags of all nations, while the four "private boxes," which were draped with the national colors, bore also handsome portraits of Lincoln and Grant. These decorations, the combined work and taste of Directors Sherman, Morris and Williamson, contributed not a little to the general harmony and pleasing effect of the "Inaugural."

The opening address was ably made by W. K. Williamson, Esq. He congratulated the Bloomfield public on the completion and opening of this Hall, regarding it as an evidence of the town's enterprise and liberality, and then went on to speak substantially as follows:

Aiding the Poor.

Mr. Editor—I am informed that the calls on the Poor Master for aid are almost daily increasing, and the poor fund is nearly exhausted. Unless the times change soon for the better, a large appropriation will be required to meet the imperative demand for assistance. Spring work, when it comes, will relieve a portion, but there will be but little change in their wants for some six weeks to come. The Poor Master is doing all his means will permit; but there is a worthy class not reached by the poor fund. No doubt some from modesty are not willing to ask aid from the town and prefer to suffer rather than be a town charge. The old, infirm, the sick, the discouraged are many times made comfortable and happy by a call with a handful of the little necessities of life, with cheering and encouraging words of kindness added thereto. Few whose wants have always been supplied can fully appreciate it. If those having charge of the Ladies Union Association, can be supplied with funds to apply to this class, it will do incalculable good. They are doing all they can without the aid of others.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company have reduced the fare over all their lines to a uniform rate of three cents per mile. This makes the fare from New York to Philadelphia $2.75 instead of $3.25 as heretofore. There is no good reason why other lines should not follow this example.

Bloomfield will hold its town election on Monday March 11th; Orange, East Orange and Franklin on Tuesday, March 12th; Montclair votes on Tuesday, April 4th, and the other townships on Monday, April 10th. Irvington Village will hold its charter election on Monday, April 21st. Belleville will vote under its old law on Monday, April 10th.

A gang of river thieves have lately been committing depredations in New York harbor at night, and it would seem with perfect impunity. The latest outrage was perpetrated early Saturday morning, when a gang of twelve thieves, after robbing an unknown schooner, boarded the schooner Highlander, Captain Commager, and taking the captain and crew to the rigging, six of them entered the cabin, where was Captain Wood and his two boys, and with pistols at their heads demanded their money and valuables. In the prosecution of the robbery they used great violence, repeatedly striking the captain and the boys, and smashing the furniture of the cabin. On retiring they fired on the captain, the bullet striking in the mouth, carrying away part of his lips and shattering his teeth.

Miss Laura, a young woman residing in Houton, entered the First National bank of that city and requested to see Mr. R. Idell, one of the tellers. She was shown into the private apartment and the two had a long conversation. Suddenly Miss Laura grew very violent and accused Idell of discarding her. A dispute followed. The woman became almost frantic and threw a large quantity of red pepper into the face of Idell. She then hurriedly departed. When she was leaving she told some of the bank officials that she would shoot Idell. Both disputants are wealthy. They are old lovers and were at one time engaged to be married. The engagement, it is said, was broken by Idell without apparent cause. The bank officials are greatly incensed over the occurrence and will probably dismiss the teller.

In the case of Alice Noice, the gardener's daughter, of Princeton, who sued to recover of Albert H. Brown $60,000 damages for breach of promise, on demurrer on the ground that a promise of this kind could not be binding when made by a married man, known to be married by the woman interested, the demurrer was sustained. The plaintiff will carry the case to the Court of Errors and Appeals.

To Advertisers and Business Men.

The circulation of this Paper is of the best character for all local or general advertising. It is read in the best families in Bloomfield and vicinity, where it is constantly gaining in patronage, use, favor and influence. As the Record is the only paper published or printed in the township, all legal notices concerning property should, in order to insure validity of title, be inserted in our columns. The law requires this class of notices to be advertised in the paper published and printed nearest the property affected.

Our Advertising Rates are moderate and we desire to please patrons in making their announcements attractive.

Legislative.

Mr. Traplagen has introduced the supplement to the township of Bloomfield, changing time for holding the annual election to the second Monday of April.

In the Senate on Tuesday the County act was amended so as to provide for one Freeholder from each ward and township, except in Hudson and Essex, and it was recommended. The bill to reduce Sheriff's fees was also recommended with an amendment that it should not go into effect until the expiration of the present terms in 1873.

A bill has been introduced to prevent the false swearing of oaths, and provides that no declaration of the amount of any personal indebtedness shall be made from the valuation of real estate, for State, county and municipal taxes, unless the person claiming such reduction shall sign a statement in writing under oath of the truth and justice thereof. Any person guilty of unlawful and corrupt swearing shall be guilty of perjury and punishable accordingly.

The following is the bill which has passed the Assembly in inference to appropriations:

Be it enacted by the Senate and General Assembly of the State of New Jersey, That if any board of chosen freeholders, or any township committee, or any board of aldermen or common councilmen, in excess of the number of such board or committee, or shall incur obligations in excess of the appropriation and limit of expense provided by law for the purposes of education, or any such board or committee, the members thereof, thus disbursing, ordering or voting for the disbursements and expenditure of public moneys, or thus incurring obligations in excess of the appropriation and limit of expense as now or hereafter appropriated and limited by law, shall be severally deemed guilty of malfeasance in office, and on being thereof convicted shall be punishable by fine not exceeding one thousand dollars or imprisonment at hard labor for any term not exceeding three years or both at the discretion of the court.

Attorney-General Vanatta has submitted an opinion to the Legislature, that the new Constitution does not repeal the Five County Act. His ground is that Paragraph 12, Sec. 7, Art. 4, does not relate to past legislation, but refers to the future, prescribing the principle on which all future tax laws must be made.
